2nd Sighting of Bald Eagles Here; Color Run Delayed

Since our item several days ago reporting sighting of a pair of bald eagles at Bois d'Arc Lake we have a second report—this time a pair were seen on Millwood Reservoir.

On Feb. 8 Gary Formby of the Arkansas Game & Fish Commission local staff reported the eagles on Bois d'Arc, expressing the hope no one would molest them so they might nest and take up residence in our area.

Thursday Barry Brown of Barry's Grocery & Market told me he and Albert Zimmerebner of Arkla Gas Co's local staff were fishing on Millwood and saw a pair of bald eagles—whether the Bois d'Arc pair or an entirely different set not being known.

Hopefully we like to think it's a new pair, for bald eagles up to now haven't settled here to nest. According to the Game & Fish people the eagles we see are those coming down here from Northeast Arkansas. In late Winter or early Spring to feed on a free meal of shad—that fish dying from natural causes about this time of year. After this seasonal feed the eagles return to the northeast corner of the state to nest.

But the presence of new lakes—the Narrows, and Millwood, and the DeGray reservoir now nearing availability for fishing—may bring the eagles to us permanently.

I don't need to remind outdoorsmen that the bald eagle is America's national emblem, and to molest them makes one subject to severe penalties under federal law. Molesters should be reported promptly, and The Star has posted a $100 reward to anyone giving information which leads to a conviction.

The bald eagle is nearly extinct—and most Americans want to help preserve it, if only because it's our national emblem.

In Wednesday's column I reported a couple of color experiments would be in town Thursday help us resume our experimental four-color picture.

Only one man made it to H. Garland Bosley, vice-president of Jungkind Photographic, Little Rock, who photo supply wholesaler, who spent Wednesday night at my house to prepare for an early start Thursday. But at the office Thursday we were messaged from Dallas that Bill Hall, district trouble-shooter for Berkey Technical Corp., New York, could not re-calibrate our Berkey color separator because he was laid up with the flu.

So we are delayed in our tests, rescheduling them beginning next Thursday, Feb. 25.

As I explained earlier this week, nothing is wrong with the Berkey machine, but we and many others over America have had uneven results from the color correction film used in the Berkey separator, and our trade is switching from the troublesome Tri-Mask film to Silver Mask, both being special purpose Eastman films. The switch requires re-calibration of the Berkey machine—and neither Bosley nor I relished the idea of tackling what we call "The Monster" without the help of the manufacturer's expert, Mr. Hall.

Weather Is Supposed to Be Cooler

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Weather Service is predicting slightly cooler weather and partly cloudy skies with the passage of a cold front through the state.

The showers and thunderstorms will discontinue in the state as the cold front moves through.

Severe weather warnings were issued for portions of the state Thursday, however, no damage was reported. But the weather service said that both hail and strong winds were reported at Hot Springs and Prescott.

Labor Given Choice by President

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — President Nixon reportedly is giving AFL-CIO construction unions the alternative of joining in a national wage-price stabilization board or facing the risk of hard-and-fast federal controls in which labor leaders would have no say at all.

Informed sources said today the idea of a government-labor-industry stabilization board with power to review any construction industry dispute before there could be a strike or price hike is the top card in a series of proposed White House alternatives that Secretary of Labor J.D. Hodgson is empowered to offer AFL-CIO leaders here.

Sources indicated, however, the threat of a wage price freeze is still Nixon's principal bargaining weapon in seeking to force an easing of soaring construction costs, even though government sources privately conceded it might be difficult to enforce in the federal courts.

This agreed with the thinking of labor lawyers, who question whether standby wage-price controls given Nixon by Congress would be imposed on a single industry.

Sources in the 13.6 million member AFL-CIO, holding its annual winter leadership meetings, cautioned there was no assurance the 17 construction unions would buy the White House proposal during the next three days of scheduled meetings with Hodgson.

One construction union president earlier called Nixon's wage-price freeze threat a political bluff.

The proposed national stabilization board reportedly would have the power to review in advance any wage strike or industry price hike for a specified period of time, still to be worked out, after which the board would rule whether it was acceptable.

Nixon Goal to Bring Americans Home for a Generation of Peace Living Cost Shows Slight Increase

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he seeks to bring Americans their first full generation of peace in this century.

"I have set our sights on a span of time that men in positions of power today can cope with, just one generation, but one long step on the path away from perennial war," the President said Thursday.

His platform was a dedication ceremony at the Smithsonian Institution of an international center for scholars. It is named after Woodrow Wilson, who led Americans into World War I with the promise it would be "the war that will end war."

Since it did not, and since the United States refused to join the League of Nations, Nixon said, the 28th president "died a broken man."

"But now, with a half-century's perspective, we can see the success of Woodrow Wilson begin to emerge. He identified the United States of America with the principle of the self-determination of all nations, weak

Civil Defense Workshop to Be Held Here

Hempstead County is one of eight counties selected by the State Civil Defense Office to conduct an all-out effort in Civil Defense activities. It is called an "Emergency Preparedness Workshop."

Purpose of the Workshop is to assist county and city government in preparing a workable "Emergency Operations Plan" for the county and to develop a vibrant program within government designed to cope with the effects of a natural disaster or a nuclear attack.

Objectives will include:

1. To provide guidance on the establishment of administrative procedures, records, and reports necessary for the operation of a local Civil Defense agency.

2. To review, with responsible government officials from county, state, and Region, the emergency responsibilities inherent in the positions they occupy.

3. To provide formal instruction related to government organization in emergencies with major emphasis on planning and emergency operations.

4. To develop, print, and distribute the Emergency Operations Plans for the county.

The first phase of the month-long Workshop will be a Civil Defense Conference for public officials and all interested citizens to be conducted at the Court Room in the Court House

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers' bill to raise most state income tax rates fell two votes short of approval Thursday and was defeated twice, but kept alive.

The bill, needing 27 favorable votes, lost 25-8 and 23-6 on consecutive roll calls. Bumpers said later that his aides thought 28 favorables voted had been lined up.

Sens. Clarence E. Bell of Parkin and Olen Hendrix of Prescott sat silently at their desks during the roll calls. Their votes, if favorable, could have put the measure over the top.

Administration sources said later that favorable votes had been expected from Bell, Hendrix and Sen. Bob Douglas of Texarkana, who voted against

Bill to Hike Sales Tax in Senate

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Ten senators introduced today a bill to raise the state sales tax rate by one-half per cent.

The measure would increase the tax, originated in 1941, to 3½ per cent. The same change would be made in the use tax rate.

Introducing the bill were Sens. Clarence Bell of Parkin, Olen Hendrix of Prescott, W. K. Ingram of West Memphis, Bill Bishop of Harrisburg, John Bearden Jr. of Leachville, Burl Thompson of Paragould, Tom Hurst of Monette, Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs, Bob Douglas of Texarkana and Jim Caldwell of Rogers.

Caldwell is the Senate's only Republican.

Among the sponsors, two—Bell and Hendrix—did not vote Thursday when the Senate twice defeated Gov. Dale Bumpers' income tax proposal.

Bishop, Thompson, Watson, Hurst and Caldwell voted for the income tax proposal, while Ingram, Bearden and Douglas voted against it.

Bell, Hendrix and Bearden all expressed support Thursday for a sales tax rate increase coupled with an income tax rate increase smaller than the one proposed in the administration's bill.

Russian Diplomat's Car Fired

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet diplomat's car was set afire early today in suburban Silver Spring, Md., and an attempt was made to ignite two other autos bearing diplomatic tags in Hyattsville, Md., police said.

No one was reported injured. A short time later an anonymous male caller told the Associated Press:

"The car of a Russian diplomat on Ross Road in Silver Spring has just been fire-bombed. This is an act of retaliation in the war of liberation for Soviet Jewry. Let our people go. Never again."

The words "Never again" are the slogan of the militant Jewish Defense League.

The Montgomery County Police Department in Silver Spring confirmed a Soviet diplomat's car had been set afire. The car's owner was not immediately identified.

"It was arson. We don't know if it was a firebomb or what," said a police dispatcher.

S. Vietnam Force Under Heavy Attack

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A strong North Vietnamese force kept a South Vietnamese artillery base six miles inside Laos under heavy attack, inflicting severe casualties in the first major battle reported along the Ho Chi Minh trail, informed U.S. sources said today.

Mortars, rockets, artillery and small arms fire slammed into the base Thursday and today. The attack was so heavy that American helicopters were unable to get into the base to lift out 80 wounded South Vietnamese and to look for a U.S. crewman missing during a previous mission.

There was no count of the dead yet.

Pilots who tried to land told Associated Press Correspondent Michael Putzel at Khe Sand, "It's just too hot."

U.S. helicopter gunships flew around the base repeatedly, firing rockets at suspected North Vietnamese positions, but one pilot told Putzel: "They are really well hidden. We can't find them. We've fired up all the places we think they might be, but it hasn't slowed them down."

Manned by South Vietnamese rangers, the base is one of three that form a triangle on hills overlooking a section of the North Vietnamese jungle trail network. It is 10 miles south of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam and nine miles north of Highway 9, the main route of the South Vietnamese advance into southern Laos.

Despite the heavy attack, official South Vietnamese spokesmen continued to report only light resistance in Laos, and the Vietnamese commander of the Laotian operation said his 16,000 troops have occupied 25 miles of the Ho Chi Minh trail.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam said in an interview that the incursion into Laos has been satisfactory. And Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, said the South Vietnamese "are doing very well."

Other sources reported that North Vietnamese forces were putting heavy pressure on a South Vietnamese column advancing slowly along Highway 9 to the transshipment point of Sepone.

Other South Vietnamese troops were reported fanning out from Route 9 in half a dozen different directions 15 to 18 miles to the north and south of Route 9. The forwardmost South Vietnamese elements were last reported 17½ miles from the border and 7½ miles away from Sepone.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that some of its paratroopers clashed Thursday with North Vietnamese troops just north of Route 9 about six miles northwest of Lao Bao.

212 Texarkana Pupils to Get Hearing

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — The Texarkana, Tex. School Board said Thursday night that each of the 212 pupils suspended temporarily for their involvement in Wednesday's fighting between black and white students would be given individual hearings.

The board said Principal W. E. McGuire would meet with each of the pupils and his or her parents. McGuire will then make a recommendation which the board will consider.

The board's policy is that any student taking part in major disruptive activities will be suspended for the remainder of the semester and receive failing grades in all courses.

There was no racial breakdown of those suspended. Classes were dismissed Wednesday after fights broke out on campus. The school has about 1,600 pupils.

Offers Bill to Issue Highway Bonds

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill calling for an election on a $300 million highway construction bond issue was introduced in the Arkansas House Thursday by the House Roads and Highways Committee.

Rep. Preston Bynum of Siloam Springs authored the bill, which the committee agreed to sponsor as its own bill. Bynum said the Highway Commission had taken no position on the bill.

Last year Bynum introduced a $200 million highway construction bond issue in a special legislative session, but the bills was killed in the House.

All revenue from Bynum's 1970 proposal would have gone to the state Highway Department, but the new bill would give only 70 per cent of the money to the state with 15 per cent going to counties and 15 per cent to cities.

Gasoline tax revenue would be used to pay the bonds off over a 30-year period without any added tax, Bynum said.

All bonds could be sold at once on a bid less than 4 1/2 per cent, but no more than 30 per cent could be sold in a one-year period if the bid was between 4 1/2 and 5 1/2 per cent interest.

Hal Johnson, a Highway Department spokesman, said funds from the bonds would finance 100 miles of four-lane highway, 200 miles of two-lane primary highways, 300 miles of secondary roads and 50 miles of four-lane urban roads.

Rep. Bennie Ryburn Jr. of Monticello introduced a bill to repeal the state government reorganization plan approved earlier in this legislative session.

Gov. Dale Bumpers, who said the reorganization plan was the most vital part of his program, has signed the bill into law.

Sen. Oscar Alagood of Little Rock introduced a bill to change the Freedom of Information Law, but said he wouldn't push the bill if it became controversial.

Alagood said a constituent asked him to introduce the bill. He would name the constituent, but a reliable source said it was Charles Brown, a member of the

The bill would permit closed sessions of public bodies to discuss pending litigation and the selection of sites for construction of buildings. It also would provide that a public meeting would not be constituted by the gathering of a quorum or more members of a public body at "a social function."

Sens. Bill H. Walmsley of Batesville, J. A. Womack of Camden and Jim Caldwell of Rogers introduced a new congressional redistricting bill that would provide a population variance of only 1,200 between districts.

Walmsley had opposed an earlier bill, passed by the legislature and signed by Bumpers, to establish districts that had a variance of 15,000, which Walmsley said was so high it likely was unconstitutional.

He also opposed the shifting of his home county, Independence, from the 2nd District to the 1st. The new bill would make the same shift, but he said that because of the closeness of the populations of the proposed districts he could not object.

Heads Easter Seal Drive in County

Mrs. Joe Jones of 417 E. Thirteenth Street, Hope, has been appointed 1971 Easter Seal chairman for Hempstead county. It was announced today by Chet Lauck, state Easter Seal chairman.

Funds raised in the drive go to maintain the Easter Seal

Rehabilitation Center in Little Rock, which provides in-patient services for crippled children from all over Arkansas, and to support the unmet needs of local handicapped persons in the county.

The drive will begin March 1 and continue until April 11, Easter Sunday.

"The Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Arkansas provides aid for the handicapped which is available from no other source," Mrs. Jones said, "and hundreds of Arkansans are helped each year."

Mrs. Jones pointed out that crippling strikes one family in five, according to the National Easter Seal Society, and each year finds the number of those needing help growing.

"Last year Hempstead county raised $1,386 and this year we hope to do even better so that we can provide for the vital services rendered the handicapped of Arkansas by the Easter Seal Society. Ninety percent of the money raised in Arkansas stays in the state," Mrs. Jones said.

Mrs. Jones, who is co-owner and operator of Joe's City Bakery in Hope, has been active in American Legion Auxiliary work and is president of the Leslie Huddleston Unit 12 this year. She has served in Auxiliary work on state, district and local levels. Mrs. Jones is past president of the Parsonettes and of the Jett B. Graves Sunday school class of the First Methodist Church of Hope. Rev. and Mrs. Jones have one daughter, Mrs. Lee Stephens of Little Rock.

This is Mrs. Jones' first year as Hempstead county Easter Seal chairman.

Jaw 5 Million Years Old

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A Harvard paleontologist reports discovery of a 5-million-year-old fragment of the jaw of early member of the human family.

Dr. Bryan Patterson, leader of an expedition to the Lake Rudolf region of Kenya, last summer, announced the find Thursday.

He said the fragment is the oldest specimen yet found in the Australopithecus line of fossil man "that was later, through intermediate forms, to culminate in Homo Sapiens."

Military Spy Safeguard Discredited

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Illinois congressman says the Pentagon's claim of new safeguards against domestic intelligence practices amounts to a framework for continued spying.

Rep. Abner J. Mikva, who says the Army's files include one on him, added he is preparing legislation to make intelligence-gathering by military personnel at home a felony.

The Democrat dismissed as "gobbledygook" the announcement Thursday by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird that a new Pentagon review council will oversee the military's security investigations within the United States.

Although Laird represented the move as fulfilling his Dec. 23 promise to strengthen civilian control of the intelligence establishment, Mikva charged, "There is nothing to indicate any policy changes."

Mikva also challenged renewed assurances of Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor that he and other Illinois leaders, including Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, had not been subjects of Army spying.

"I have talked with some people who flatly told me they saw my file," said Mikva, noting he is scheduled to testify on the matter before a Senate hearing next week.

Mikva said Laird's action fell "far, far short of what he promised, of really getting a handle on military intelligence. Either he changed his mind or he lost a battle with others in the Pentagon."

The review panel will include the civilian undersecretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force, and only one military man, the director of the Defense Intelligence Agency. It will be headed by Asst. Secretary of Defense Robert F. Froehke.

Contrary to an earlier indication by Laird, however, DIA's foreign operations will remain a responsibility of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Froehke told newsmen that high on the list of the council's priorities will be the issue of existing files, "although I can assure you ... that a great number of files have been destroyed between 1969 and today."

Froehke said reports of domestic intelligence abuses had been exaggerated, but "nevertheless did give cause for concern."

"My answer," said Mikva later, "is that the military has no business doing any kind of domestic intelligence work whatsoever. To the extent that it is needed to protect bases, it can be done by the FBI or local law enforcement, which is the way that every other government agency operates."

Mikva said military agents "should confine their activities to finding empty prisoner-of-war camps."

The congressman attacked Resor for what he termed "not even a whitewash, but a no-wash."

In a letter released publicly Thursday by Rep. Ogden Reid, R-N.Y., Resor conceded: "Some reports submitted by intelligence personnel could have contained the names of political figures such as Sen. Stevenson, Rep. Mikva or former Gov. (Otto) Kerner even though they were not the subject of our military intelligence activities."

At least one former agent, John O'Brien, is expected to testify next week, however, that separate files were kept on Mikva and other Illinois politicians by a military unit responsible for domestic intelligence in the Midwest.

The action was taken at the request of Gov. Dale Bumpers. Former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller had appointed Nabholz to the position.

Eight other appointments by Bumpers were confirmed. They were:

—Ned Stewart of Texarkana to a six-year term on the Oil and Gas Commission; Larry Brewer of Paragould to a five-year term on the Arkansas State University Board of Trustees; James D. Roebuck of Fort Smith as director of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission; Roland Culp of Prescott to a four-year term on the Savings and Loan Association Board; James D. Reynolds of Camden to a two-year term on the Interstate Oil Compact; Richard L. Chitwood of El Dorado for a one year term on the Advisory Council for Vocational-Technical Education; Dr. Ralph Bowers of Harrison to the Arkansas Tech Board of Trustees for a four-year term; and Dorothy McDonald of Brinkley to a seven-year term on the board of Mental Retardation.

Brewer replaces Russell Owen of Marked Tree on the ASU Board. Owen's term expired this year.

Bumpers has taken no action regarding Rockefeller's appointment of Elijah Coleman of Little Rock, a Negro, to the ASU board. At a news conference earlier Thursday, the governor said the appointment remained in the same status as the last time newsmen asked him about it. He said then the matter was under consideration.

Nonstudent Arrested on U of A Campus

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Lonnie Ferguson of Springdale was arrested Thursday after selling copies of the Ozark Mountain Times on the University of Arkansas campus.

Ferguson, a nonstudent, was one of several persons warned Wednesday about selling the underground paper on the campus.

He was arrested for violation of a 1967 act which provides for arrest when a person refuses to leave state property after being asked to do so by an authorized official. Ferguson faces a minimum fine of $25 and a maximum of $100 and-or six months in jail.

Joe Saunders, a member of the Ozark Mountain Times Collective, which publishes the paper, was arrested recently for selling the paper on campus after being asked to leave.

Dr. Otto H. Zinke, a physics professor at the University and president of the state American Civil Liberties Union, said Thursday the ACLU would take Saunders' case because the organization felt the law under which he and Ferguson were arrested was a violation of the right to assembly.

8 Appointments Confirmed, One Rejected

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Senate rejected Thursday the appointment of Robert Nabholz of Conway to a six-year term on the state Waterways Commission and confirmed Dave Ward of Conway for the post.

The action was taken at the request of Gov. Dale Bumpers. Former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller had appointed Nabholz to the position.

Eight other appointments by Bumpers were confirmed. They were:

1970 Traffic Deaths Lowest in Years

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's traffic death rate for miles traveled in 1970 was the lowest of any year for which records have been kept, the National Safety Council reports.

Both the number of fatalities and the death rate dropped, the council said Thursday, even though there was an increase of three million drivers and four million motor vehicles over 1969 figures.

Traffic accidents claimed 55,300 lives, a 2 per cent drop from the 1969 figure of 56,400. There were five deaths for each 100 million vehicle miles traveled, compared with 5.3 in 1969, the council said.

The decline reflects safer cars, better highways and stricter state laws, a council spokesman said.

Although the trend is encouraging, he said, "there is still a great deal to be done in the area of traffic and highway safety."

John D. Lawlor, executive vice president of the council, said legislatures must enact even tougher safety standards.

"Legislative compliance with the federal Highway Safety Act of 1966 is progressing gradually," Lawlor said. "But when one stops to consider what is at stake, the progression seems slow indeed."

There needs to be a toughening of standards dealing with vehicle inspections, registration, driver education and licensing, courts, alcohol, and highway design and maintenance, he added.

Fluoridation of Water Is Spreading

By C. G. McDaniel
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 5,000 U.S. communities with populations totaling more than 82 million are now adding fluorides to their public water supplies.

The yearly rate of increase continues to be about 400 to 500 communities, Dr. Viron Diefenbach, assistant executive director for dental health of the American Dental Association said in an interview Wednesday.

He estimated that 43 communities with two million population were added in 1970, the 25th anniversary of public water fluoridation.

Grand Rapids, Mich., was the first U.S. city to fluoridate its water, in 1945, followed the same year by Newburgh, N.Y. Brantford, Ont., also added fluorides to its water that year.

At the end of 1969, fluorides were being added to the water of 4,834 communities serving 80.1 million persons.

In addition, 2,624 communities in the United States have naturally fluoridated water supplies. These serve 8.4 million persons.

All states have some communities with fluoridation, and a few have laws requiring it as a public health measure.

Boston, Los Angeles and New Orleans are among the few major cities without such laws, Diefenbach said.

The latest large cities to approve addition of fluorides are Memphis, Tenn., and Seattle, Wash.

The House For Comfort

Here is the house for a family living in the country or suburban areas. The house is framed to allow liberal use of glass to take advantage of scenic views. The post and beam construction in the kitchen, family area, and living room makes it possible to obtain exposed beam ceilings and random placement of glass.

Dependent on finish, this house can either have a modern or rustic appearance. It is designed to fit a spacious wooded site in rural areas or a sixty foot wide lot in suburban areas.

The floor plan is arranged to save steps, to cut down on housework, and reduce traffic through the kitchen. It is designed to meet your needs. This three-bedroom plan provides a moderate living room, large family area and kitchen with a utility closet in the hall. Room sizes and closets are generous, and the rectangular shape reduces building costs.

The bedrooms are of medium size and arranged to reduce hall space. The combined kitchen and family area is spacious enough to provide easy movement throughout the area, with the U-shaped cabinets designed to reduce traffic through the work area.

If you are interested in this plan, No. 647604, working drawings may be obtained from the Hempstead County Agricultural Extension Office. These complete working drawings, which are free of charge, can be used by your local contractor or material dealer in determining building costs for such a house in your community.

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

MY READERS ANSWER THE MAIL

Dear Helen:

In answer to the fellow who wondered what to do with a wife that came on like the giant meatball gal on TV:

Deride her efforts, "teach" her, tell her to use her time for more worthwhile things—things you want—keep her busy running errands, raising the kids, slaving for you, belittle her lack of education, don't accept her suggestions because they are stupid—and in 18 years you'll have a lovely, well-run house, nice children, and a wife who, with much effort in her "spare time," got a college education, but who can't stand the ground you walk on.

I am such a wife. For 17½ years I accepted my abject inferiority. I even thought it was the duty of wives to walk ten steps behind, take whatever was dished out, and try, always failing, to win a small pat on the back.

And then, I got a responsible job (due to my college degree). I'm filling it so well I'm already up for a big promotion. Suddenly my eyes are opened. I'm not a total zero.

And I won't be a wife much longer. Female liberation—here I come! —BREA KOUT

Dear Helen:
I hardly ever disagree with your advice. In fact, I believe you to be among the top columnists. But Helen, I must express my shock at your soft answer to "Disgusted Mother." Soft on that hard-hearted nurse, that is.

You said a good nurse isn't always a gentle soul, and no lasting traumas will result for the seven-year-old child if the mother doesn't make a big thing of the post-operative name-calling.

A truly professional nurse would never call a frightened child a crybaby. And many people DO have lasting fear of hospitals and medical treatment because of one bad experience. The nurse should have been reported! —WIFE OF PSYCHOLOGIST

Dear Wife:

A good nurse makes even bad medicine go down easily: YOU would make a good nurse!

I was "soft" on the woman in question because I hadn't heard both sides.

Sometimes hysteria responds better to shock than sympathy. We can be pretty sure the mother already reported the nurse and got no satisfaction from her supervisor. Otherwise, why would she have written to me? —H.

Dear Helen:

It appears that "Parent of a Red-Eyed Grind" and "Mad Student" have missed the whole point of homework, which, as "A Beta Club Member" states, is "...a continuation of the learning you can't get entirely in school."

Perhaps some teachers give busy work, but not many, for that means giving themselves more papers to collect and correct. No, it is simply that if a student wishes to receive a good education, he must work at home as well as at school because every course includes more information than a teacher can give in less than an hour a day. The quick, attentive, easy learner gets by with little homework. Perhaps the Red-eyed Grind has never learned to concentrate.

"Mad" remarks, "If teachers want us to slave 10 hours a day they'd better put in that kind of time too." We do, we do! I have never sat under a hair dryer, or relaxed with TV that I wasn't correcting papers, averaging grades or preparing lessons. And how about those extra-curricular activities, like PTA and clubs? —L.E.N.

Dear Helen:
"Mad Student" says that adults don't bring their work home at night. Those who succeed in the professions usually work much longer than their eight-hour-day. My wife does. She is a teacher! And a very dedicated person! —PROUD HUSBAND

Dear Helen:
I'm tired of hearing blasts against education and teachers. Educators must have as much college as engineers, and their starting salaries are up to $3000 less for longer hours. After seeing so many important and necessary school issues turned down this year, I'm wondering how the educational system will survive. By the way, I'm not a teacher. I'm an —ENGINEER

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Dinah Shore, discussing with Johnny Carson life in televisionland, this week complained mildly that NBC censors had "Bleeped" — erased — references by a guest on her daytime show to an expensive San Francisco restaurant and to a brand of French wine that sells for $15 a bottle.

"I guess they thought they were free plugs," said Dinah. "But when I had quite a discussion with the author of 'The Sensuous Woman,' they never touched a word. Bureau of standards, where were you when I needed you?"

It was an interesting question. Sometimes the viewer wonders if network censors bother to check the exchange on daytime game shows which often are deliberately risqué, many times started or egged on by the host.

Actor Forrest Tucker, a guest contestant with his wife on "It's Your Bet" this week, has constantly indulged in locker room quips. At one point Thursday, he surfaced with such a clinical remark that there was a sudden embarrassed stillness in the studio audience and frozen expressions by both his wife and host Dick Gautier.

Television, however, has gradually been shedding restraints. "Hell" and "damn," once automatically erased from tapes, are now more frequent than even the commercial breaks on the late evening talk shows. Frank discussions of sex abound on the daytime shows.

Some of the recent made-for-TV movie features and even the series now are explicit in dealing with venereal disease, abortion, illicit relations, perversion and drug abuse.

The educational network recently left a brief nude scene in the movie "Marat-Sade."

Edward G. Robinson, reminiscing about the early days of talking pictures on the educational stations' "The Movie Crazy Years" Thursday night recalled that in "Little Caesar" he died while invoking "mother of mercy" because he was not allowed to use the word "God."

Today in television, the word is used commonly even when spoken for emphasis and quite

Obscene Movie Hearing Is Delayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A preliminary hearing for four persons arrested on charges of allowing "obscene" films to be shown was continued Thursday until Tuesday morning.

The four are employees of the Joy 1 Twin Theater in downtown North Little Rock. They were arrested Wednesday night at the theater during a raid by police and four members of the Censor Board.

Mrs. Judith Rogers of North Little Rock, the theater's attorney, asked for the continuance. The employees are free on bond. They are Claire A. Bull, 46, assistant manager, and Gloria Jean Horn, 28, both of North Little Rock and Bobby D.

without religious implications.

Purest areas of television are the situation comedies—no cuss words, no forbidden subject.

But wasn't it Billy Wilder who said he was looking for the day when they stopped using four-letter words and got back to a three-letter word: wit.

Notre Dame Is Stunned by Fordham

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Fordham's Charlie Yelverton had just fouled out after a super performance, the applause of 19,500 rocking rafter-jammed Madison Square Garden.

So what do you do when you lose your wonder player with everything riding on the last seven minutes?

"Charlie had been coming through for us for 19 games, so it was our turn to win one for him," said little Bill Mainor.

And the Rams did—stunning Notre Dame 94-88 Thursday night in an emotion-charged college basketball game.

"We said we'd bring it back for Charlie," Mainor piped over ear-splitting huzzahs of the Fordham dressing room. "It seems like a smaller team does better under pressure than a large team."

"And everybody did the job for us, although giving away four, five inches in height. We played more with our hearts than with our ability."

More than a few in the animated audience would dispute that last statement, for it was Yelverton's ability that kept the Rams in the game and Mainor's that won it for them.

King Charles scored 28 points, had 11 rebounds, blocked several shots and made many key steals that fired the 18th-ranked Rams to a 75-73 lead over the 14th-ranked Irish with seven minutes left.

Then Yelverton committed "a stupid, reach-in foul" under the basket and had to make that agonizing stroll to the bench, bringing the thunderous crowd to its feet. The applause lasted more than a minute.

Mainor, charged with guarding Notre Dame's high-scoring Austin Carr, scored only four points in the first half. Then, when Yelverton sat down near the end, Mainor punched through 13 of the Rams' last 19 points and wound up with 27.

Mainor, at one point, scored 10 straight, mostly on soft outside jumpers, to power the Rams to a 94-86 lead with 18 seconds remaining.

And although Carr scored a game-high 29 points, Mainor didn't allow the Irish' great guard a point in the last, critical seven minutes.

Carr was unconsolable in the loser's low-key dressing room. "Too many turnovers lost it for us," said the nation's second leading scorer with a 37-point average. "It was just a bad floor game."

Why wasn't he getting the ball at the end?

"Fordham was pressing and it just seemed the flow of the game was being funneled away from me," said Carr, who indicted the loss might cost the Irish, now 14-7, an at-large berth in the NCAA post-season tournament.

"We'll just have to get out and win our next five games," said Carr, his eyes watching the floor.

The Garden clash was the second game of a doubleheader. Temple starved Manhattan with a tough zone in the opener, allowing the Jaspers just one field goal in the first 12 minutes, for a 64-47 victory.

In a relatively light schedule around the nation, Memphis State whipped Bradley 74-70, St. Louis downed North Texas 65-61 and Denver tripped Oklahoma City 64-63.

Memphis State made of 15 free throws in the last 11 minutes and Jim Douglass provided the clincher with a 10-foot corner shot with 3:20 left that gave the Tigers a never-topped 68-66 lead over Bradley.

St. Louis kept within hailing distance of Missouri Valley—leading Louisville with the victory over North Texas. The Billkens are within a half-game of the MVC pacers.

Denver's Dave Bustin scored 24 points to lead the Pioneers to their 12th straight victory.

Another Try to Open Tucson Play

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Officials tried again today to get in the first round of the rain-plagued $110,000 Tucson Golf Tournament while Lee Trevino got a reprieve from five three-putt greens.

Trevino, who has won the last two Tucson titles, slogged in with a 72 Thursday, just moments before a steady drizzle turned into a heavy shower and forced cancellation of the round.

His score, along with all the rest of the early finishers, was washed out. The round was to be replayed completely today.

Another 18-hole round is scheduled Saturday with a 36-hole windup set for Sunday.

"My putting has gone a little sour," commented Trevino, the 1970 leading money winner and Vardon Trophy champion.

"A lot of it was the water. You'd think the water was going to hold up the ball, and, zoom, you're four feet past. So, next time, you play it fast and the water holds you up and you're four feet short."

"But I just wasn't putting very well."

"And, I'm not thinking well. I've got a lot of things on my mind and I'm in a fog out there. I get over a 20-footer and I'm thinking about three-putting instead of thinking about knocking it in the hole."

The Tucson National Golf Club course, a par 72 layout, played even longer than its listed 7,305 yards.

"You just can't believe how long it played," Trevino said. "It was three or four clubs longer than last year."

"That 72 ain't no shabby score. I didn't want to have it rained out."

Longshot Cesar Sanudo, a Mexican native who has yet to win in two years on the pro tour, had the best score among the early finishers, 70, two-under-par.

Jim Colbert, Larry Ziegler and Jack Harden had 71s in the generally high scoring. Bob Murphy, who lost to Trevino in the playoff here last year, shot 75. Homero Blancas had a 76 and National Seniors champ Julius Boros had an 81 washed out.

Lady Golfers Tee Off in Sears Classic

PORT ST. LUCIE, Fla. (AP) — Shirley Englehorn wants to keep the "his" and "hers" tags on the professional golf tours.

Last year's four-tournament winner among the girls isn't the least interested in going coed with Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and company.

"Men's golf is a different game," said Miss Englehorn. "I enjoy playing golf with men—but for fun and not a living." Shirley and 72 fellow pros—if fellow is the word—were scheduled to tee off today in the $60,000 Sears' Women's World Classic.

The Ladies Professional Golfers Association first 1971 event is its richest ever, offering a $10,000 winner's check and a full length mink coat for a hole-in-one at the Port St. Lucie Country Club.

Reds Having Signing Troubles

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
This is the year Sparky Anderson says "we'll find out if I can really manage."

Anderson guided the Cincinnati Reds to the National League title last season as a freshman major league manager in baseball.

Anderson finds the 1971 picture a bit of different today as he starts his sophomore spring with the Reds at their spring training camp at Tampa, Fla.

For one thing the Reds had only 17 of 37 roster players under contract. Catcher Johnny Bench, the league's most valuable player for 1970, is one of those still unsigned. Others include pitchers Jim Merritt and Wayne Simpson.

Another problem Anderson faces is a replacement for Bobby Tolan, regular center fielder and the NL's leading base stealer last season. Tolan ruptured an Achilles tendon while playing basketball during the off-season and is out at least until June.

Surveying the tuning up job his Big Red Machine needs it's hardly any wonder Anderson commented "I guess we'll find out now if I can really manage."

The Baltimore Orioles, the American League champions who beat Cincinnati in the World Series, opened their camp at Miami Thursday with veteran pitchers Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar still unsigned.

Paul Blair, the Orioles center-fielder, reported a week early to start a switch-hitting experiment. He hits right-handed, but wants to be able to swing from the other side of the plate, too.

Veteran southpaw Bob Veale was missing as the Pittsburgh Pirates opened camp at Bradenton, Fla., but manager Danny Murtaugh said the star pitcher was expected by the weekend.

Elsewhere rookie Doug Griffin, expected to replace Mike Andrews at second base for Boston, checked in early at the Red Sox camp at Winter Haven, Fla. Infielder Dennis Menke also was an early arrival at the Houston Astros' camp at Cocoa, Fla.

Three pitchers, Jim Colborn, Joe Decker and Larry Gura signed with the Chicago Cubs.

Liquori Is After 13th Straight

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten in New York, Marty Liquori goes for his 13th consecutive triumph tonight in the third edition of the U.S. Olympic Invitational Track and Field meet at Madison Square Garden which features 12 defending champions and nine outstanding athletes from the Soviet Union.

Each of the Russians is entered in a separate event, thus matching the Soviets versus the United States in nine of the 18 events on the program at Madison Square Garden's 11-lap elastroturf banked oval.

Liquori's biggest threat in the 1,500 meters will come from Russian champion Mikhail Zhelobovsky who has faced the Villanova Olympian twice, losing each time.

In other Soviet-U.S. matches it will be Jim Green of Kentucky, Lt. Charlie Greene of the Army, Herb Washington of Michigan state and Army Capt. Mel Pender against Russia's Alexander Kornelyuk, whose best in the Soviet's two meets of their three-meet tour was a second on the West Coast.

In the 800 meters, Yevgeny Arzhanov, rated the top runner in the world at this distance for 1970, finished second and third on the West Coast. Facing the Russian champion will be former NYU ace Byron Dyce and Wisconsin's Mark Winzenried.

The 3,000-meters pairs Rashid Shraetdinov, a 27-year-old native of Leningrad against Art Dulong, former Holy Cross star, and Barry Brown of the New York A.C.

Three Russian men are in field events, headed by Olympic triple jump champ Viktor Sanyev, long jumper Vladimir Skibyenko and high jumper Kestutis Sapka with two distaffers, Ludmila Bragina and Nadezhda Kolesnikova, each entered in the women's 800 meters.

Records May Fall in Indoor Meet

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Several world records are expected to fall tonight when an impressive slate of international track stars takes to the boards in the fifth annual indoor games.

Jim Ryan, the legendary 24-year-old holder of the world outdoor mile record at 3:51.1, goes to the line against John Mason who last week recorded the fastest mile in three years at 3:58.9 in Los Angeles.

The mile matches Ryan and Mason with Chuck LaBenz, this country's premier miler last year, and New Zealand's Dick Quax.

The world record holder in the 1,000-yard run — Australia's Ralph Doubell — will put his mark of 2:05.5 against Juris Ludzins' 2:05.6.

Kerry Pearce, Rex Maddaford and Kerry O'Brien, also from Australia, will match the United States' Frank Shorter and George Young in the two-mile. Pearce set the 8:27.2 world record in San Diego in 1968.

Buchanan Is Named Fighter of the Year

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Although Muhammad Ali returned to the boxing scene and Joe Frazier gained universal recognition as world heavyweight champion, the biggest fighter of 1970, in the eyes of the Boxing Writers Association, was 5-foot-7½ Ken Buchanan of Scotland.

Buchanan, who lost the only fight of his career in 1970 but also won the world lightweight title, was voted the Edward J. Neil Memorial trophy Thursday as fighter of the year.

The stylish boxer edged Frazier 14-13 in a runoff vote. Ali was third on the first ballot. Don Dunphy, whose voice has brought a multitude of fights to fans throughout the world, was named winner of the James J. Walker Memorial Award for long and meritorious service to boxing.

Another easy winner was Dick Sadler, manager of unbeaten heavyweight contender George Foreman, who won the Al Buck Memorial Award of manager of the year.

Buchanan lost his 1970 debut, a 15-round decision to Spaniard Miguel Velazquez in Madrid for the vacant European lightweight title.

The 25-year-old Scot then won the rest of his 1970 fights, four by decision and one by knockout, with one of the decisions bringing him the world lightweight crown in a 15-rounder against Ismael Laguna under a broiling sun in the Ali-Oscar Bonavena card in which Buchanan's dazzling exhibition of boxing earned him a standing ovation from the sellout Madison Square Garden crowd.

Buchanan's first this year, which brought his record to 38-1, was a 15-round decision over Ruben Navarro of Mexico in a title defense in Los Angeles.

Buchanan is the fourth foreign fighter to win the 33-year-old Neil Award, named for The Associated Press boxing writer who was killed while covering the Spanish Civil War. Others were former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba; ex-heavyweight king Ingemar Johansson of Sweden and Dick Tiger of Nigeria, former middleweight and light heavyweight champ.

Others nominated for the 1970 award were Carlos Monzon of Argentina, who knocked out Italy's Nino Benvenuti for the middleweight championship; Billy Backus of Syracuse, N.Y., who stopped Jose Napoles of Mexico for the welterweight title, and Foreman.

Knicks Finally Fight Off the Little Man

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The limping New York Knicks feared a 5-foot-9 rookie guard but the little man feared his coach and when the dust had cleared, the world champion Knicks had emerged with a 116-115 victory.

But not before the smallest man to play in the National Basketball Association in a long time gave New York Coach Red Holtzman a scare Thursday night.

Twice trailing, the San Diego Rockets inserted Calvin Murphy in the lineup and the graduate of Niagara sparked a comeback. Once New York led 16-4 but Murphy brought his men back to a 53-51 halftime and 83-80 after three periods.

Then, when the Knicks jumped ahead 110-98 and were rolling, in came Murphy again to bring the home team back. His clutch basket and free throw shooting put the Rockets only a point down with five seconds to play.

Larry Siegfried, acting Rocket coach after Alex Hannum was ejected on technical fouls, called time out and set up the play.

"It was supposed to be a drive to the bucket by Stu Lantz. We knew they'd converge on E," Siegfried, reserve guard and former Boston Celtic, said, referring to Elvin Hayes.

Big John Trapp passed the ball in to Murphy, who wheeled and drove to the right. He was 20 feet from the basket and clear enough for a shot. More than 7,800 fans pleaded with him to drive and shoot; three seconds remained.

Murphy flipped the ball to Hayes on the left side, 20 feet out, and as Elvin whirled, the buzzer sounded. The game was over.

"As a rookie, my job is to follow orders," Murphy explained. "Don't be a hero on your own." He admitted he thought about shooting or driving but "my orders were to pass. I feel I did my job, as Murphy wound up with 28 points, giving him 81 in four games this year with New York. He has a 14.9 average against the league.

Hayes, who was 13-of-30 from the field, had 33 points but Walt Frazier of the Knicks had 36 and Dick Barnett added 27 for the winners.

The victory was only the second in the last nine New York games, leaving the Knicks with a 42-25 record atop the NBA's Atlantic Division.

The defeat leaves San Diego 29-38, 12 games back of Los Angeles in the Pacific Division. In the only other pro basketball game played, at Portland, the Los Angeles Lakers romped over the Trail Blazers 136-114. The Lakers broke the game wide open in the second period with 14 straight points and coasted the rest of the way for their fourth victory in a row over Portland.

Gail Goodrich, Keith Erickson and Happy Hairston accounted for 72 points among them for Los Angeles. Goodrich provided most of the scoring impetus with 28 points and Erickson and Hairston chipped in with 22 each.

Rookie Geoff Petrie of the Trail Blazers garnered game-scoring laurels with 36 points.

Elegant Heir Flashes to Spa Victory

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Elegant Heir, owned by Robert Ballis and ridden by Lonnie Ray, flashed past favored Francesco in the stretch drive to win the $9,000 feature race at Oaklawn Park Thursday.

Elegant Heir finished the one mile and 70 yards with a one-length margin over Francesco, who was 3½ lengths in front of Jay Lea, the show horse. The time for the race was 1:41 3-5 on a fast track.

Ten 3 and 4-year-olds are to meet in today's $7,000 feature, a 5½ furlong test. Topweighted at 121 pounds is Running Beauty. Others entered are Handy Quest (109), Dolly Hi (114), Anne Ballet (99), Kentucky Flipper (109), Tessitura (118), Ashtola (112), Curru Miss (113), Artsy Crafts (109) and Investiture (116).

As the second choice in the wagering, Elegant Heir returned $8.40, $3.00 and $2.60. Francesco paid $2.60 and $2.40 and Jay Lea returned $3.80.

Jay Lea grabbed the early lead but Francesco moved to the front as the field of six headed into the stretch turn. At that point, the field was strung out.

Elegant Heir began closing in on Francesco entering the stretch and finally caught the tiring leader at the sixteenth pole.

Last week, Francesco had defeated a field that included Elegant Heir over the same dis-

Czech Tennis Player Comes Alive

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
SALISBURY, Md. (AP)—Stanley Stanpinzak, the mythical marvel of the tennis circuit, has suddenly come to life.

He turned up in Salisbury as a real person—Vladimir Zednik of Czechoslovakia—and blasted his way into the semi-finals of the U.S. National Indoor Open.

Stanpinzak was a figment of the mind, invented some 10 years ago by tournament director Bill Riordan. Since then, stories of Stanley's play both on and off the court have haunted tennis officials.

One governing body, enraged by a report of Stanley's erratic behavior, once came close to suspending him. On another occasion, Stanley was seeded No. 1 in a tournament on the basis of his record.

Despite advance publicity, including fake telegrams from the Polish embassy — Stanley was supposed to be a Polish junior champion—Stanpinzak, of course never showed up.

Last year, when he didn't arrive for the National Open, Riordan said it was "the biggest tournament he never showed up for."

Zednik, like Stanley's ghost, is a strapping blaster with a powerful serve. He was awesome Thursday night as he demolished Peter Curtis of Britain, 7-6, 6-2, in a quarterfinal match of unseeded players.

Cliff Richey, America's top-ranked player and the No. 1 domestic seed in the $50,000 tournament, won Thursday's other quarterfinal, easily disposing of Thomaz Koch of Brazil, 6-2, 6-2.

The 24-year-old Zednik, making his first tournament in America, served six love games and rammed home 10 aces, including three in the final game.

"To beat him," Curtis said of Zednik, "you've got to return his serves and keep the ball in play. I couldn't do either."

The crunching Czech, now known as the "Big C," reportedly broke seven of his wood rackets on a recent Australian tour before switching to steel. He also breaks his opponents' rackets.

Stans Declares Group Selects Woman of Year Trust Was Totally Blind

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans says a blind trust he set up before joining the Cabinet has been "totally blind" although he has received information from companies whose securities are in the account.

Stans also declared in a six-page statement Wednesday that he fully disclosed all his financial holdings in a report to the Senate Commerce Committee Jan. 13, 1969 a few days before he was confirmed.

The secretary issued the statement three days after disclosure that he held 38,000 shares of Great Southwest Corp., a major Penn Central railroad subsidiary, in June 1970 when the administration was planning to save the railroad from bankruptcy with $200 million in federal loan guarantees.

Stans said in his statement that he had disqualified himself from any role in the Penn Central negotiations. The administration later abandoned the planned loan as politically risky.

Stans did not list any specific holdings in Great Southwest in his financial statement to the senate committee. But he did refer to an "undivided interest ... of indeterminable value" in two partnerships, Staats & Co. and Glore Forgan Staats & Co. Glore Forgan was the Penn Central's investment adviser for most of the past decade.

In his statement Wednesday, Stans said the partnerships did not own any great Southwest stock when he was confirmed but did have options on the stock of Macco Development Corp., another Pennsy subsidiary later merged with Great Southwest.

The Macco options were traded for Great Southwest shares when the two companies merged in March 1969, Stans said, and the Great Southwest stock was divided up and assigned to Glore Forgan partners in June.

The House Banking and Currency Committee in a staff report on the Penn Central failure issued over the weekend listed Stans along with several other partners and officers of Glore Forgan as holding 38,000 shares in Great Southwest.

Although the report did not otherwise mention Stans, it contained the following statement: "The exact date on which these shares were acquired were not available. However, a substantial portion of these areas (275,000) according to minutes of a Dec. 6, 1963, GSC board of directors meeting, were acquired in 1963."

A current officer of Glore Forgan and two former partners said last week that they were aware of their exact Great Southwest holdings "for some time"—at least earlier than 1969.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., who has called for the Commerce Committee to hold hearings on Stans' matter, said he did not think the secretary's explanation was sufficient.

Hartke said Stans still needed to clarify three things: Whether there was concealment of Penn Central subsidiary at the time of the confirmation hearings; whether the blind trust was really blind; and whether Stans or an agent of Stans participated in the application for the $200 million loan.

were planned to go out later setting a year-end freeze on appropriated money for such other antislum programs as urban renewal and sewer and water grants.

But the draft letters were killed after representatives of the National League of Cities and the conference of Mayors lodged strong protests in a meeting with officers of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The city spokesmen protested the plan for arbitrary cutoff of appropriated funds, the alleged "hostage" tactic for bringing pressure on mayors, the absence of any negotiation on the allotments, and the possibility that 19 of the cities—those which had only reached the preliminary stage of the Model Cities program—would be left without any additional funds at all.

HUD officials obviously were acting on White House orders, some informants said. There was a period of confusion and indecision at HUD after the cities' objections were raised, until the letters finally were canceled.

Yablonski Jr. Seeks to Avenge Father

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON—(N.E.A.)—On New Year's Eve of 1969 somebody entered the Pennsylvania home of coal union reformer Joseph Yablonski and fired at least five bullets into him, two into his wife and two more into his 25-year-old daughter.

The shots were heard in mine shafts throughout the nation.

Yablonski had just lost an incredibly confused, controversial and brutal election for the presidency of the United Mine Workers of America. Friends said the murders were an extension of the election's anger. Evidence was found to suggest that an "assassination fund" had been set up, and Yablonski associates bluntly accused UMW officials of having engineered their colleague's murder.

Suits were filed, special investigations started, grand juries formed. Militant mine workers decided to "stand up and be counted." Such were the resulting activities that one coal district congressman speculated that, ugly as the murders were, they might at least bring about a cleanup of the autocratic UMW.

That was one year ago.

Today, it appears some of the individual anger over the Yablonski family deaths has abated. And a good deal of the hectic legal wrangle has, too. A Senate subcommittee formed to investigate the UMW has not met in more than seven months. A Labor Department suit which would void the election Yablonski lost has not even had a hearing yet. As one longtime coal union observer puts it: "In this business people forget. They have to. If you let every miserable thing that happens bother you, you'd just go down in the mine one day and never come up."

But on a less emotional, more realistic basis, the fight to avenge Joe Yablonski goes on. Soon, five people will be tried in Pennsylvania for the murders. The prosecution is confident of victory. And although few Yablonski avengers believe that justice will be satisfied even with convictions—"The real murderers, the guys who paid for the assassination, are still at large."—there is hope the trials will bring out new evidence of alleged UMW crime and corruption.

the fight continues

And, perhaps, even help weed out the alleged wrongdoing.

One of the more optimistic weed-pickers, as it happens, is Joe Yablonski's son, Chip, 31, a Washington lawyer. It was he who, only hours after the discovery of his father's murder, accused UMW officials of complicity. And it is he who for the past dozen months has been at the lead of legal potshooting at the union.

Never a coalworker himself, he nonetheless has many connections among dissatisfied working factions. He acts as counsel for the largest such faction—Miners for Democracy, a group of antiestablishment UMWs formed after the elder Yablonski's death. MFD, says Yablonski Jr., represents the 42,000 men who voted for his father. And he strongly believes that it is these men who will eventually fully requite Yablonski Sr. — "By taking over the UMW."

In the days immediately following the murders, Chip Yablonski began a blind attack against the UMW. He said some things that, while perhaps true, helped little. Now, he says, he has calmed down some. "Maybe I should keep going for the jugular, but I think I can accomplish more with another approach." That approach is legal. Chip Yablonski has decided to destroy UMW leadership in court.

In recent months, Yablonski Jr. has scratched the Labor Department conscience until a scab is beginning to show. He has decried department apathy and inaction over the UMW investigation ("There is one suit against the UMW trusteeship program which is now over six years old"). He has called for the resignation of some Labor officials. He has called UMW's president Tony Boyle everything but nice ("He couldn't run a garbage truck"). Right now he is buttonholing Congress for

Talks Prices, Wages With Labor Chiefs

ap labor writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Nixon sent his labor secretary here today to talk to increasingly resentful labor leaders about his plans to curb inflationary wage-price pressures on the nation's economy.

The assignment of Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson was to continue efforts to work out a system of wage-price restraints with AFL-CIO construction unions. But a major union leader also expressed concern about rumors of more general White House economic controls.

"Controls of any kind I would oppose," said United Steelworkers President I. W. Abel, whose union is demanding large wage increases this year for 750,000 workers in the steel, copper, aluminum and can industries.

Abel said his union wants the freedom to negotiate catch-up wage and cost-of-living agreements without White House interference.

Nixon aides have hinted at the possibility of a construction wage-price freeze. The President extended his own 30-day deadline for working out a voluntary plan when he decided to send Hodgson here for further talks.

Nixon said in Washington Wednesday night Hodgson made the trip with the aim of halting an upward spiral in construction industry wages and prices.

If a voluntary agreement cannot be worked out, Nixon said, "there will be action."

The 17 AFL-CIO building and construction trade unions have refused so far to offer any voluntary wage restraints. Nixon's original deadline expired Wednesday.

Union sources said Hodgson would try to bargain for the cooperation of the construction unions in some plan short of a wage-price freeze. The plan reportedly could involve a White House offer to shift federal construction money in such a way as to create more jobs in exchange for cooperation to ease industry costs.

The unions, in turn, reportedly will cite a newly signed agreement with the construction industry designed to halt costly jurisdictional strikes and streamline work rules for greater production as their contribution to easing costs.

Hodgson won't talk formally with the AFL-CIO Executive Council until Friday, and with the building and construction trades leaders Saturday.

government help. "We have to have federal assistance to supervise our elections." One specific Yablonski battle is to clear up a recent UMW election in Pennsylvania's District 5. The election was held in December and, according to Yablonski, three reform candidates won at the polling places. However, "The UMW brought in absentee ballots to be counted because the absentee ballots are stacked ballots which would defeat our candidates. We contend that the International Union prohibits absentee ballots—and we intend to fight for justice."

Yablonski's fight, to be sure, is being conducted in some degree of tension. He says he sleeps with a gun under his pillow because "They won't get me like they got my father." But if he's worried about it, he refuses to tremble. "I think I'm very high on the Tony Boyle hate list—but I'm still going to see him booted out of office."

Blacks Oppose West Memphis School Plan

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP)—The Negro plaintiffs in the West Memphis school desegregation case said Wednesday they opposed the West Memphis School Board's proposed desegregation plan. The plan was filed Friday in U.S. District Court.

The board proposed that all Negro Wonder High School be converted to a school for all 10th graders in the district and to assign all 11th and 12th graders to the predominantly-white West Memphis High.

The Negroes said they were opposed to the selection of West Memphis High as the 11th and 12th grade school for the district.

Calley's Life Depicted in My Lai Trail

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP)—In the seventh grade Rusty Calley was caught cheating in an examination and had to repeat the grade.

In the ninth grade he argued with a teacher, was suspended for a week and was shuttled off to a private military academy.

In high school, out of a graduating class of 731, Calley was ranked 666. He did so miserably in junior college that he dropped out after the first year to drift into a series of second-rate jobs.

Now, at 27, Rusty Calley is on trial. As William Laws Calley Jr., a first lieutenant in the United States Army, he is accused of being the chief triggerman in the bloodbath of the tiny Vietnamese village of My Lai.

Soon, as the climax of the trial, Calley will tell his own story. Through a legal necessity much of what he will say was read Wednesday to the six military men who will judge him. A defense lawyer said the statement was a preview of Calley's testimony.

It depicts the young Calley as growing up in harmony with one older and two younger sisters in Miami, Fla.

"During these years," the statement read to a psychiatrist-witness and a jury said, "he was regularly attending school, carrying on an active social life with other young people his age and enjoyed various sports such as football and boating."

"He had many friends but formed few close attachments. He has never experimented with drugs and describes moderate social drinking. He was bored with affluent suburban living."

Ironically, Calley tried, after leaving college in the summer of 1963, to enlist in the Army. He was rejected because he was tone deaf.

The senior Calley's business failed and the family moved to North Carolina. His father, a construction equipment salesman, was a diabetic. His mother developed cancer and soon died.

For a time Rusty lived with the family, helping with finances.

Then, while visiting San Francisco, Calley received his draft notice and started driving to Miami. His car broke down in Albuquerque.

Out of funds, he enlisted in the Army on the spot. It was July 16, 1966—exactly 20 months before the day in My Lai.

After basic training Calley was assigned to Ft. Lewis, Wash., and did so well as a clerk-typist he was recommended for Officer Candidate School at Ft. Benning.

On Sept. 7, 1967, Calley was graduated as a second lieutenant. He ranked 120th in a class of 156.

With a gold bar on his shoulder, Calley was assigned to Hawaii and Charlie Company, 1st Battalion, 20th Infantry in October 1967 and was given a platoon.

December 1967 found Charlie

Company in Vietnam, part of the newly organized Americal Division. Calley received more training.

"As part of this training," the statement said, "he was directed to treat all South Vietnamese with great caution since men, women of all ages—including old men and women and small children—have proved to be as dangerous an enemy as the full-grown military-age men."

In an area where 90 per cent of American casualties came from mines and booby traps Calley "felt increasingly frustrated at the difficulty of identifying the enemy."

On March 15, 1968, Capt. Ernest Medina, Calley's company commander, gathered his troops and briefed them.

"Lt. Calley came out of the briefing with the opinion that all enemy encountered during the operation were to be destroyed and that everyone remaining in the area was the enemy," the statement said.

Calley's 1st Platoon was chosen to conduct the sweep.

And then in Wednesday's court statement came the first direct admission by the defendant that he shot the villagers, who were captive and unresisting and mostly women, old men and children:

"Lt. Calley ordered Paul Meadlo, a soldier in his platoon, to shoot and took part himself in shooting some detained Vietnamese on two occasions—once about the center of the hamlet and once on the eastern edge of it in an irrigation ditch or depression."

"Lt. Calley will testify he believed he was following orders to destroy all living things in the village."

His lawyers give his view: "Lt. Calley states that he did not feel as if he were killing humans, but rather that they were enemy with whom one could not speak or reason."

Substitutes for Eggs at Breakfast

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Your warnings on eating too many eggs (three a week) creates breakfast problems. I usually eat a good breakfast (including one soft-boiled egg). What can I substitute to cut down on the eggs?

Dear Reader—Many people ask the same question. A big greasy breakfast is certainly an American tradition. It is not a tradition in many other countries with better health than we enjoy. The continental breakfast is a cup of coffee and a roll, certainly not in the same league as eggs, bacon, buttered toast and other traditional American breakfasts. Omitting breakfast may cause you to feel weak in the middle of the morning for awhile but the body soon readjusts.

You can eat breakfast without loading the system with either saturated fat or cholesterol. It is a good time to eat fresh fruit, melons and fruit juice. Cereals are good, especially those made at home, like oatmeal. You can eat them with low-fat milk (preferably with only 1 percent butterfat). Adding sliced fruit to commercial cereals gives them a nutritional bonus. Rice also is good.

Pancakes or waffles can be made using nonfat dry milk powder as a milk source and omitting both the fat and egg listed on both commercial mixes and in usual recipes. They still turn out well. These can be topped with a substitute cream, made from mixing equal volumes of water and nonfat dry milk powder. This with sugar and cinnamon makes an interesting change. The only protein you will get, of course, is in the milk and flour. The multiple variations of wheatcakes can be made this way, including blueberries, bananas, apples or other fruit.

If you can stand the calories and the fat, you can use polyunsaturated margarine for a spread with or without syrup or honey.

You can make a nonfat white sauce by mixing the flour with water, then adding nonfat dry milk powder. All you need to leave out of the usual white sauce recipe is the fat. This can be combined with dried beef and served with toast.

If you have a thing against dried beef served in this manner, perhaps you would like to get accustomed to creamed chicken on toast. Then you could fry salmon.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

St. Valentine's Day commemorates the martyrdom of St. Valentine who died in Rome, Feb. 14, A.D. 270. The World Almanac notes, however, that association of this day with lovers has no connection with the saint and probably had its origin in an old belief that on this day birds began to choose their mates.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

cakes in a pan treated to prevent sticking or lightly oiled with corn oil. Fish is a good idea for breakfast.

Of course, you could use toast and spread it with the substitute cream and cinnamon mixture and sweeten with sugar. Or spread your toast with polyunsaturated margarine.

Don't overlook the value of nonfat dry milk powder in food preparation. You may not like to drink it, but it is wonderful in cooking. It is a good way to enrich the calcium in your diet and you can increase the ratio of the dry powder to get more calcium than you would from whole milk.

John Pickett of Pittsburgh writes in part, "In one of your articles you suggested that squeezes might develop if given an opportunity. At a neighborhood men's duplicate club I found myself in a most optimistic six-drum contract. We got there after aggressive bidding. Too aggressive on my part, I fear."

"East was rather ill-advised to double since he didn't really want a heart lead, but probably East expected to set me regardless of what was opened. West opened 10 of hearts. I won it with my queen and ran off five club tricks. Two spades were thrown from dummy and West let go the seven of hearts as one of his three discards. East dropped the deuce of spades and a heart."

"Now I ran off three diamond tricks taking care to wind up in dummy and East had to make one more discard. He could not afford the luxury of letting another heart go and had to chuck the king of spades. After that, it was a simple matter to cash one of dummy's top hearts and then throw East in with the ace of spades. Don't you consider this hand most interesting?"

We sure do. Mr. Pickett did overbid when he jumped to three no-trump. East's double was doubtful and it gave declarer a chance to operate. You just can't make a slam when you lose the first two tricks.

West's discard of the seven of hearts was just a very careless play. He could surely have afforded one diamond and two spade discards and he should have visualized the danger in the heart suit. At that Mr. Pickett did make a tremendous play and really deserved his top score.

Smithys Forge on, But Future Is Dim

By ERNIE HOOD

Rick C., Elizabethton, Tenn., says: "Many people tell me blacksmiths are a thing of the past. Is this a dying art or is there some career potential in becoming one?"

Dear Rick: While the ancient skill of making horseshoes, for which blacksmiths are most noted, has been replaced to some extent by readymade shoes, the smithy's skills are still required to trim the horse's hoof and adjust the shoe to fit.

Those engaged in this kind of work usually own small shops in rural areas and also make and repair tools for area farmers. On the other hand, about two-thirds of the 15,000 now employed in this field are industrial blacksmiths found in the iron, steel, mining, machinery, construction and railroad industries.

These craftsmen make, sharpen and repair metal hand tools or machine parts. Most workers enter this occupation as helpers in small blacksmith shops, where they learn the trade on-the-job. Others undergo formal apprenticeship training programs for three or four years. Vocational or high school courses in metalworking, blueprint reading and math are also helpful.

Employment of blacksmiths is expected to decline, leaving only a few hundred openings each year as more of the metal articles they once produced are made by forge shops or welders. Often, too, it is cheaper to replace small machinery parts or tools than to have them repaired by a blacksmith.

Morris P., Mullens, W. Va., asks: "How do I train for a career as a social worker, and how much can I expect to earn?"

Dear Morris: A bachelor's degree, preferably in social welfare, is the usual minimum requirement for beginning social work.

Jobs in some specialized areas of this field may require a master's degree in social work, conferred by one of 64 graduate schools accredited by the Council on Social Work Education.

For teaching positions, a doctorate is preferred. Training in social science research methods, as well as a graduate degree and some social work experience, are required for research positions. As you can see, the type of social work you want to do determines how much training you should receive.

To enter graduate school, students must have a broad liberal arts background, including economics, history, psychology, sociology and anthropology. Biology, statistics, writing and public speaking courses also are helpful.

THOUGHTS
Callousness and indifference on the part of government are just as corrosive of the people's confidence in their government as is corruption.

Soft drinks are truly a universal product. People can consume them from the cradle to the grave.
—Victor A. Bonomo, president of Pepsi-Cola.
The administration regularly delivers to congressmen engineering and economic studies supporting the plane. Two studies expected to dispute claims of potential environmental pollution by the plane are promised before Congress votes next month on extending funds.
More directly, many of the more than 100 SST subcontractors and their employe groups are pressing congressmen to keep the program going.

SAY, AREN'T YOU...? There is something familiar here, with a reason. Caricature sculpture is of Frank Sinatra, from earlier, obviously a leaner days. It is among thousands of props being auctioned off as 20th Century-Fox goes the way of other major studios in disposing of the leftovers from hundreds of films.

SST Forces Gather for Both Sides

WASHINGTON (AP) — With indications the supersonic transport plane is developing serious trouble in the House as well as the Senate, both sides of the issue are mounting intense lobbying efforts.
An Associated Press survey indicates 202 House members favor ending federal money for development of the 1,800-mile-an-hour SST and 188 for more funds. Another 29 say they're undecided and 14 could not be found for comment or refused to state their position.
The lineup is a sharp shift from two years ago when the House approved new SST funds 126 to 64. Last year the House again voted for new SST money but by a narrower 205-185 margin.
The Senate, the focal point of SST objections in the past, voted 52-41 last year to halt taxpayer money to the program.
The House-Senate standoff may be settled next month. In the meantime funding is continuing at last year's level.
Cutoff of funds by Congress could kill the program and take America out of the supersonic transport race.
Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe told newsmen he plans to present his case for development of the 298-passenger, titanium delta-wing jetliner to as many of the 63 new congressmen as he can.

In all the world no monument is more famous than Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty. Standing on an isle in New York harbor, it is the symbol of a nation that enjoys the ultimate in political and religious freedom. It is our Americanism landmark.

Since 1886, the towering statue has been the first welcoming beacon for countless thousands coming to these shores to find a better life... The life of Liberty, of Freedom, the American way. The inscription on its base carries a potent message of promise as significant as the monument itself:

"Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore.
Send these, the homeless, the tempest-tost, to me:
I lift my lamp beside the golden door."
Then, if we have in the past, may we never again take Liberty for granted... it wears a price tag.

Tells Details of Grisly Killing

By LINDA DEUTSCH Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Krenwinkel, serene and softspoken, confessed in grisly detail that she killed two persons in the Sharon Tate murders and carved "War" on the chest of a dead man in the aftermath.

The dark-haired, plain-looking defendant was unemotional as she testified Thursday that she chased coffee heiress Abigail Folger across the lawn of actress Tate's mansion and then "I stabbed her and I kept stabbing her."

The next night, she said, she stabbed the wife of wealthy market owner Leno LaBianca, later carving "War" in LaBianca's chest and leaving a fork stuck in his stomach.

She said bearded Charles Manson, hippie-style clan leader, was not involved in any of the seven killings in August 1969.

The 23-year-old, her wavy brown hair hanging nearly to her waist, was the second woman defendant to confess on the stand during the penalty phase of the murder trial. Susan Atkins has admitted killing Miss Tate and, in an unrelated incident, a Malibu physician.

Both said Manson was not involved. The two women, Manson and Leslie Van Houten have been convicted of murder. The jury is hearing evidence to decide if they should be sentenced to death or life in prison.

Miss Krenwinkel, describing her life with Manson's roving "family," said she considered him "perfection" and the best lover she ever knew.

Then she told of the night when Miss Tate and four visitors were slain in a red mansion on a hilltop.

She said she, Miss Atkins, Charles "Tex" Watson and Linda Kasabian, who testified for the state, "dropped acid" together before going on a drive. None told her where they were going, she said, and she had no intent to kill.

Her memory, she said, was blurred because the group was "stoned" on LSD, but she remembered violence and the chase of Miss Folger, 26.

"I had a knife in my hand and she ran out a back door ... I chased her through the door onto the lawn and I stabbed her and I kept stabbing her and I looked up and there was blackness and that was all."

"What did you feel after you stabbed her," she was asked.

"Nothing ... It was just there and like it was right."

"What did you feel as you left?"

"I guess complete paranoia."

Her memories, she said, are of "reaction ... It's all a picture of motion and reaction. I can't remember details. There was some man I was tying up. I can remember looking up and Sadie was fighting with two women. I remember I just got up and went over and I was fighting."

Sadie is the nickname of Miss Atkins. Miss Krenwinkel is known as Katie.

The next day, she said, she and Miss Van Houten "were tripping" on LSD and that night they went on another drive, ending at the home of Mr. and Mrs. LaBianca. Miss Krenwinkel said Mrs. Kasabian and Watson went in first, then came out.

Miss Krenwinkel went in with Watson and Miss Van Houten and found the LaBiancas tied up on a sofa. The couple pleaded for their lives, she said, offering "anything" for mercy, but: "When you're on acid and someone tells you don't do something, you don't hear the don't."

She said Mrs. LaBianca took her and Miss Van Houten into a bedroom, then grabbed for a lamp. "I ran out to the kitchen and grabbed a whole bunch of utensils out of the drawer. I came back in and had a knife in my hand. Leslie had put a pillow case on her head."

"She began grabbing overhead for the lamp, and that's when I started stabbing her ... I walked out of the room and I had the kitchen utensils in my hand. I remember flashing on a strange thing—little pictures of children."

A man was on the floor and I remember thinking, "You won't be sending your son to war," and I guess I put "War" on the man's chest. I picked up the fork and stuck it in his stomach."

She said she dipped a towel in blood on LaBianca's stomach and scrawled words on the

Johnson and Dan Cicciello, Instructors at the college. The program will be presented by films, slides, and interesting briefings entitled "Between You and Disaster."

"Our aim in Hempstead County," Judge Odom said, "is to have an operational capability at every level of government to successfully cope with any disaster, natural or man-made."

"Any one interested in the Civil Defense program for Hempstead County is cordially invited to attend the Conference," Judge Odom said.

Mrs. Geneva Downing, Civil Defense Director for the county, said, "We are glad to have the assistance from State Civil Defense and State College in helping us attain and maintain the best Civil Defense capability possible, so that we may combat any disaster which may occur."

Mrs. Downing has urged all who can to attend the Conference and avail themselves of all information possible during this time of Civil Defense interest in the county.

Group Favors Increasing Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has given tentative approval to a $35 billion increase in the national debt limit, the largest single boost since World War II but still $5 billion less than President Nixon requested.

The committee will vote Monday on sending the proposal to Congress to hike the federal government's borrowing limit to $430 billion.

Opposition is expected in the House to another committee recommendation to permit the sale of up to $10 billion in long-term Treasury bonds without regard to the 4 1/2 per cent interest rate set by law.

The administration had asked for outright repeal of the 53-year-old limit. Democrats have long considered the ceiling as a symbol of dedication to low interest rates generally.

Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally had told the committee a $40 billion increase in the debt limit would be sufficient through mid-1972. But the committee chairman, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said he doubted it would provide enough borrowing power for a year.

the bill. After each defeat, the Senate expunged the record of the roll calls, in effect putting the bill in the same position it was in before either vote was taken.

Before the votes, the Senate defeated two proposed amendments and two others were withdrawn. Some Senate opposition, and the nonvotes of Bell and Hendrix, seemed geared to a preference for a sales tax rate increase, which Bumpers has not yet proposed.

The governor said after the defeats that he would stand by his own tax package. "Too much work was put into this program for us to change from day to day," he said.

The income tax bill would produce $15 million in new state revenue by Bumpers' estimate. That is more than half of the $26 million in new money he has requested of the legislature.

Sen. Ben Allen of Little Rock, floor manager of the bill, urged Senate approval as "the first step toward equity, fairness and concern" and to support Bumpers' request for a "minimal" program rather than the $90 million tax package that was requested two years ago by former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Sen. John F. Bearden Jr. of Leachville, who subsequently voted against the bill on both roll calls, had unsuccessfully sponsored an amendment that would have increased income tax rates, but less sharply than rates would be increased by Bumpers' bill. His changes would have reduced the bill's new revenue production by $2.7 million by his figures, but $8.6 million according to Allen's.

Sen. Joe T. Ford of Little Rock, who voted against the bill, also unsuccessfully sponsored one amendment that would have adopted the federal income tax capital gains treatment with a 5 per cent ceiling. Allen said the step would benefit the very rich without any corresponding action to help middle and lower income groups.

Ford's amendment was beaten 7-22 and Bearden's 13-19. Ford withdrew another proposed amendment that was contingent on the success of his first proposal.

Sen. Bill H. Walmsley of Batesville offered the first amendment, which would have made the state's flat-rate 7 per cent corporate income tax a graduated scale equal to the personal income tax rates proposed by Bumpers. Walmsley withdrew his proposal, explaining that he had been assured "unequivocally" that if his amendment were adopted the bill would be killed.

Bumpers' bill proposes income tax rates of 1 per cent on the first $3,000 taxable income, 2 1/2 per cent on the next $3,000, 3 1/2 per cent on the next $3,000, 4 1/2 per cent on the next $6,000, 6 per cent on the next $10,000, 7 per cent on the next $15,000 and 9 per cent on all above $40,000.

Existing rates are 1 per cent on the first $3,000, 2 per cent on the next $3,000, 3 per cent on the next $5,000, 4 per cent on the next $14,000 and 5 per cent on all above $25,000.

The House approved 53-28 a bill by Rep. Art Givens of Sherwood to allow state authorities to seize and sell vehicles in which contraband drugs were found.

Givens said the power to seize and sell would not apply to vehicles of persons who were innocent. Rep. Steve Smith of Huntsville delayed further action on the bill by giving notice that he might ask for reconsideration of it.

The House approved 64-12 a bill by Rep. James C. Cole of Malvern to prohibit an insurance company from reducing hospitalization or disability benefits because another company also was insuring and paying benefits to the policyholder. Rep. W. R. Nicholson of Osceola gave notice that he might ask for reconsideration of Cole's bill.

Each chamber approved identical administration bills to require licensing by the Pollution Control Commission of public waste treatment plants and their supervisors. The House vote was 75-0, the Senate vote 31-0.

A bill to divide the 5th Judicial Circuit was delayed in the House when Smith and Rep. Ronald Archer of Russellville objected to its second reading and the House unanimously voted to suspend the rules to allow a second reading.

The bill by Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway, approved Wednesday in the Senate, would retain Circuit Court Judge Russell C. Roberts in a new 5th circuit, but would put Prosecutor Alex G. Streett in a new district, which would be the 21st.

Streett and Roberts belong to opposing political factions in the present 5th Circuit.

In other actions, the Senate: —Approved 30-0 a bill by Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs to permit the formation of a water or sewer suburban improvement district on the petition of landowners who hold a majority of the value, rather than acreage, of the proposed district.

—Approved 30-0 a bill by Sen. Morris Henry of Fayetteville providing for the licensing of septic tank installers, requiring a notice to the state Health Department of the planned installation of a septic tank in areas that lack sewerage regulations, and permitting the department to disapprove future installations that fail to satisfy regulations that would be promulgated under the measure.

Man Charged With Killing Officers Caught

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — More than 60 law officers surrounded an East Dallas apartment today and captured Rene Adolpho Guzman, 33, charged with murder in the execution-style slayings of three sheriff's deputies.

The arrests came after police entered what they later determined to be the wrong apartment and exchanged shots with a man and a woman. The couple was wounded and taken to Parkland Hospital, where they were listed in good condition.

Shortly thereafter police entered a nearby building and Guzman and Leonard Ramos Lopez, 24, gave up with resistance.

Guzman had been the object of a manhunt since Monday night when three county officers-two from Dallas and one from Ellis—were gunned down in the Trinity River bottoms in West Dallas.

The sheriff's deputies slain were Donnie Reese, 30, of Rockwall; Sam Infante, 32, of Irving, and A.J. Robertson, 59, of Waxahachie. Deputy Wendell Dover was wounded seriously but is expected to recover.

The officers had been captured when they went to investigate burglary at a house that police later said was occupied by Guzman and his brother Moises, 35, also charged with murder in the killings.

and strong. "He lit a spark that merged this nation with the cause of generosity and idealism."

A day earlier, Nixon had declared he would not hesitate to use all U.S. airpower short of nuclear weapons to defend American troops in Indochina. He also declined to rule out support for Saigon should South Vietnam decide to invade North Vietnam.

His news conference comments stirred Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., former Paris peace talks negotiator W. Averell Harriman and other critics of Nixon's war policies.

"President Nixon's statement that he would put no limit on the use of American airpower in Indochina is a major escalation of the war," McGovern said at a news conference.

Harriman said if the fighting spread into North Vietnam he was convinced China would intervene.

"We can expand it, yes, into Laos and we have done it into Cambodia and now it seems the President is considering going into North Vietnam," Harriman said in a talk to the Women's National Democratic Club.

"We are now encouraging Asians to fight Asians."

Nixon did not mention the Southeast Asian war in his Smithsonian speech, but the parallel to Wilson and to World War I gave his remarks special significance.

"We have taken the first steps toward walking in peace," Nixon said. "But we must first break the terrible world habit of war and only then can we learn the wondrous habit of peace."

"That is why today I do not speak of the war to end wars. Instead, I hope to focus on something that men alive today can achieve for themselves and their children, on a dream that

Egypt Says No More Concessions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Egypt served notice today that it will make no more concessions to get peace with the Israelis and challenged Israel to "tell the Arabs and the world whether it wants peace or territory."

"If Israel's answer is, 'Yes, I want your land, not your peace, and you can do what you like about this,' then Egypt will have to draw the inescapable conclusion that there is no alternative to fighting," said a long article in the semi-official news paper Al Ahram. The article was signed by the paper's influential editor, Mohammed Hassanein Heikal.

The article said, however, that this did not mean Egypt would start shooting on March 7 when the current cease-fire expires. Instead it will retain the initiative to pick the "time, place and method of fighting."

Sources close to the Israeli government reported Thursday that Egypt has indicated it will sign a peace treaty if Israel returns all of the Sinai Desert.

we can realize here and now, a genuine beginning toward our ultimate goal."

The President shared the speaker's rostrum with the man he defeated for the presidency, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., a prime mover in establishment of the scholar's center.

The former vice president joined Nixon in praise of Wilson. In a gesture of bipartisanship, he gave Nixon a 1910 "Wilson" campaign button to match the one he wore in his lapel.

Afterward, the two men left the building together and stood side by side signing autographs for eager spectators.
